RECTOR'S RAMBLINGS

Did you enjoy England's progress in the World Cup last month? Perhaps it now seems a distant memory but even for me, someone who isn't a great football fan, there was something special about it. For a while Football's Coming Home rang out across the land until it all came to an end against Croatia. But did it really all finish there?

Football's Coming Home is the chorus of the song Three Lions, a verse of which goes like this:

*Three lions on my shirt
Jules Rimet still gleaming
Thirty years of hurt
Doesn't stop me dreaming*

The song was written for the 1996 European Championships held in England, 30 years after England won the World Cup. The cup they won back then was the Jules Rimet Trophy, made for the 1930 tournament. That trophy really was a cup, a chalice whose stem was the figure of Nike, the Greek god of victory, with the names of the victors prominently displayed around the base. Since ancient times a cup has been awarded to victors so that they can drink to their victory, and 'Victory' was the name of the Jules Rimet Trophy before it was renamed in 1946, after the FIFA president who initiated the tournament.

Under the old rules of the tournament, if the same country won three times they got to keep the trophy and in 1970 Brazil took it home for good. With Brazil keeping the cup a new trophy was commissioned for the 1974 tournament. Sylvio Gazzaniga, the Italian who designed it, wanted the new trophy to reflect a new ethos. Not one that was all about a single victor but one that reflected the fact that the sport is played both by and between two teams. So instead of one superhuman figure there are two human figures, two rather than one symbolising partnership and co-operation. The winners' names are not obvious, they are engraved underneath and it's not a victor's cup because it's not a cup at all. The two figures are holding up the world and the trophy celebrates the fact that the tournament brings the whole world together.

Though the England team didn't win the tournament, they won in another way, because they won the hearts of so many people. And this was down to their manager Gareth Southgate. Not least because he doesn't see kindness as weakness and doesn't fear failure. Because he's been there.

The 1996 semi-finals of the European Cup at Wembley saw England play Germany, a re-run of the 1966 World Cup Final. After extra time the game went to penalties. Up stepped the five regular England penalty takers and they all scored. So too did the five German penalty takers. And so it went to sudden death. And up got Gareth Southgate. The hopes and dreams of the nation upon him. After 'thirty years of hurt' he could bring football home – and he missed.

'I've learnt a million things from that day and the years that followed it,' he wrote in his autobiography. 'When something goes wrong in your life it doesn't finish you and you should become braver knowing that you've got to go for things in life and don't regret that you didn't try to be as good as you might be.'

When England beat Columbia on penalties, having congratulated his own players, Gareth Southgate took the time to seek out Mateus Uribe, the Colombian player whose miss had set up England's victory, and put an arm round him in consolation. Writing in the Guardian the journalist John Crace said:

His arm round Uribe's shoulder wasn't a casual, passing gesture: it was one that spoke of a deep personal understanding. . . That night he showed a nation how to behave.

Part of the preparation for this tournament involved the England players sitting down together in small groups and sharing their life experiences and anxieties and revealing things about their character and what drives them. The point being, as Southgate put it: 'to build trust, making them closer, with a better understanding of each other.'

In the 2013 Windmill United Benefice Lent Course we followed the film 'Sixty-Six', which is set in 1966 and based on the true-life story of a Jewish boy called Bernie who realises that the date of his Bar Mitzvah clashes with the date of the world cup final at Wembley and that if England are in the final nobody will want to come to his party. The course was sub-titled 'Exploring the spiritual journey home' and alongside the film it looked at the coming home of the prodigal son through Rembrandt's painting of this homecoming.

The course booklet ends with a quote from Michael Mitton's book, Dreaming of Home:

Homecoming is in many respects another name for spirituality. Some have presented spirituality as the kind of thing we get to escape from our normal, worldly, unspiritual self. True spirituality, however, is daring to discover the real us, including the normal, earthy, unspiritual bits, and to explore the life of the Spirit in a place that is authentically us.

Gareth Southgate showed the England team how to do that sort of homecoming. In fact, he showed us all how that sort of homecoming can be.

With love and prayers

Nicholas

70 YEARS OF THE NHS 1948 - 2018

THE NHS – THEN AND NOW. HAPPY BIRTHDAY!

As someone who is approaching his 90th birthday later this year, I have had a long-lasting contact with the NHS. What I write is not from newspapers or a TV commentary but instead from memories and personal experience.

In the 1930s, when I was born, there was no free public healthcare available. My parents held on to a receipt for the cost of my birth – I at times wished I too had receipts for my children’s births... perhaps then I could have offered up a ‘return to seller’ comment in riposte in the teenage years when my offspring would claim I was the worst parent ever!

I was a small child then, somewhat weak and with reoccurring asthma and bronchitis, necessitating frequent visits to doctors and medication. This all came at a considerable cost to my parent and so was never lightly undertaken and there was no chance these appointments would be missed as payment was still required.

During the war years my aunt brought me down to London to consult with a New Zealand doctor who specialised in allergy research. I was duly examined and the cause of my allergies found. Avoiding these triggers meant my health improved and I finally began to thrive and grow – a bit too much according to my mother. This was an expensive visit and once again my parents had to find the fees for the doctor and other staff meaning that other luxuries, and some necessities had to be forgone.

In 1945, after the war ended, my time at Grammar School came to an end and I went up to Leicester University for two years. Soon after this a General election took place that saw the departure of Winston Churchill and the Conservative-led government was replaced by Labour. 1948 saw the birth of the NHS as championed by Bevan, the Minister of Health, and the chief architect of the National Health Service. Coming from a very poor background he was passionate about ensuring equal access for all types of people to free at point of entry healthcare.

1953 saw me move, with my family, to Surrey for work and life. In Shirley, where we first settled, there was an excellent surgery. Particularly useful with my growing family of four children and their various childhood ailments and injuries. Being able to access good healthcare without worrying about how to find the money to pay for it at a time of crisis really brought home to me how difficult it must have been for people on a tight budget to afford treatment when they were unwell and probably not able to work.

I was a keen cricket player and on one occasion suffered an injury that required stitching so was dispatched to one of the cottage hospitals – in Purley. Sadly, this and many other small local hospitals have since been closed and treatment has been centralised to larger sites. The advantage of this is that there are multi-disciplinary teams that provide a wide range of treatments but the convenience and short waiting times of the cottage hospitals has been lost.

I retired from teaching and my wife and I moved to Smallfield, choosing to live in a bungalow to make access easier for us as we got older. When I first arrived in Smallfield the local doctor worked from a room in his home. Now we have a purpose-built surgery on Wheelers Lane; this has fantastic facilities and excellent staff close by for residents.

Over the last 70 years of the NHS we have lived through the vast changes and advances in medicine and their implementation in the NHS, and without these and the dedication and care offered by the amazing staff who work within the health service it's not wrong to claim that I wouldn't be here today. As I write this article I'm lying in my hospital bed recovering. Not only from knee replacement surgery, but also the double pneumonia that took hold in the early days following my surgery. This required total life support for me as the medical teams battled (and won) to save my life.

So Happy Birthday to the NHS, it's thanks to you that I too will get to see my birthday this year... my 90th!

Trevor Brock
Burstow Parish Councillor

WEDNESDAY CLUB

Our next meeting is on Wednesday 1 August at 2.00pm at the Lloyd Hall in Outwood. We will be having a Beetle Drive, a White Elephant stall, and a competition for the best item beginning with a B.

Our September meeting will be on Wednesday 5th at the same time and place. The Wildlife of Western Australia is the topic of our speaker Glenda Law. The stall will be for Harvest Festival items and there is no competition this month.

Visitors are always welcome.

BURSTOW Mothers' UNION MOTHERS' UNION Christian care for families

Our speaker in June took us on a journey through Ethiopia. One tends to think of the famine in the 1980s whenever this country is mentioned but lessons were learnt then and most of the population are well catered for these days, although perhaps not to our standards. As usual in quite a few of the African countries the Chinese have a foothold in the country but they have built dams, improved the supply of power and helping with the improvement of the roads so travel is easier for the locals.

We held the second of our table top sales after the morning service on July 8th and raised just under £79 so thanks to all who supported us.

We don't have a formal meeting in August but Margaret Hobson is holding an open-house/drop-in day on Saturday 18 August between 10.30am and 5pm. Come and have a cuppa and a nibble and a chat. There will also be a bring and buy stall. Her address is Lilac Cottage, Donkey Lane, Fernhill, Horley. (01293 784862).

Our next meeting is on Tuesday 18 September, meeting as usual at 6 The Cravens, Smallfield, and we start at 2pm. You are all most welcome to join us.

Mollie Case-Green

BURSTOW AND SMALLFIELD WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

The July meeting was slightly different to the normal. We were about to make something and not just sit and listen to a speaker. The lovely Inez Anderson came along to show us how to make items from recycled cards, drinks cartons etc – Inez really can't bear to see things thrown away that could have another use. Our task was to make a Christmas card (I know it's early but apparently this is the time to start) from previous years' cards using special cutters, pinking shears, glue, ribbons and glitter.

There was soon a hubbub of industry and chatter – the rearranged seating which facilitated the work also seemed to encourage a lot more talking. I think everyone was pleased with their resulting re-imagined cards.

The competition – a small arrangement of flowers – was jointly won by Pauline Thorpe and Sue Gill.

There is no meeting in August. We shall resume WI on Tuesday 11 September when the speaker will be Marilyn Greatorex, giving a talk about the National Trust and Standen. We meet at Smallfield Church Hall, Redehall Road at 2.00pm. Come along and join in.

PARISH COUNCIL NEWS

Your village website:
www.burstowparishcouncil.org.uk

What wonderful weather we have all experienced over the last few weeks which I am sure has helped to stem our disappointment in not lifting the World Cup. Traditionally August is a quiet time for your Council with no meetings or committees, however a lot of background work is undertaken on the preparation of budgets for expenditure for the forthcoming year so if any of you have ideas for projects that may need financing please inform the Parish Clerk.

Our Nature Garden at The Centenary Hall is looking a little sad and we would appreciate volunteers who may be able to give a small amount of their time weekly to help in its maintenance and planting.

Progress on the improvement of Centenary Hall continues at apace and we are now embarking on the third and final stage to provide separate accommodation for the Learn by Play pre-school with its own self-contained toilet and kitchen facilities and the enlargement of the Parish Clerk's Office. Jeannie has had to vacate her existing office for the duration of these ongoing works but I can assure you all that she is there to be found, probably in the Outwood Room. The new kitchen has had its first successful event use and we are now looking for volunteers to assist with the formation of a Luncheon Club and community coffee mornings.

Your Council has some reservations regarding some of the proposals within the now published Tandridge Neighborhood Plan and will make representations at the reporting stage now in progress. On the Planning scene, our application for the formation of a Car Park on the school playing field is still awaiting a decision, having been allocated to a third planning officer for review following staff shortages and redundancies within the planning department. It also transpires that the application for the erection of 88 dwellings in the field adjacent to Dowlands Lane has been withdrawn.

Finally, we wish 'The Father of the Council' Trevor Brock our best wishes for his 90th Birthday in mid-September and happy Summer holidays to all our parishioners.

CAMEO

We came and met each other on Friday 6 July to hear Paul Campbell from Sight for Surrey give a really enjoyable and interesting talk. He said the charity was formed after the first world war to help victims suffering from the effects of mustard gas and went on to explain how it had expanded so now helped people with sight, hearing, or both, difficulties. As it was rather warm in the van parked outside he brought in lots of things to show us and for us to try out. Among these, there were doorbells that could be moved round the house with you so were not in the hall from where they could not be heard (even two different ringtones so you knew if it was front, side or back door), a fire alarm that vibrated under your pillow to wake you if you were asleep and so could not see or hear it and telephones with lots of functions to help sight and hearing. He left us all with a number to ring if we wished to have more information or a visit – 01372 377701.

In August we meet for a tea party in The Rectory Garden (5 The Acorns, behind the church hall) at 2pm on Friday 3 August. On 7 September we have a visit from a National Trust Ranger and on 5 October we will hear about a walk to the South Pole (a talk which was cancelled in February as there was too much ice and snow for us to get there!). We look forward to seeing you. Margaret Hobson HEAR HERE: NHS-trained hearing volunteer Helen will be at the hall from 1.30-2.30pm on 3 August and 7 September and to provide batteries for and to maintain your hearing aids.

Everyone is welcome at HEAR HERE or at CAMEO or at both.

News from 1st Burstow Scout Group

1st Burstow Cubs having a lot fun sliding on a wet groundsheet at the Scout HQ keeping themselves cool from the hot weather and having a sponge fight!

Another evening traversing on the boulder wall at Blackland Campsite near East Grinstead (a technical term used in rock climbing)

We had a wonderful time over a weekend family camp which took place at Boidier Hurst Scout Campsite, not far from Box Hill. Rowenna's Mum and Dad came along to cook a meal which was very much appreciated after setting up camp on the Friday evening. Saturday morning was breakfast and flag break then on to the day's activities. First, a hike on Headley Heath following the Lizard Trail looking for different kinds of insects and caterpillars found on the Heath at this time of year, climbing trees and discovering different plants to discover. After four hours it was back to the campsite for lunch. After lunch was: a string trail with the parents being blindfold and led round by their children; building dens and a tag game in the woods – each side had to find the parrot of their opponent to win the game. During the evening each family had to provide a sketch around the camp fire and many camp fire songs were sung especially eyes, ears, nose and knees (see picture). Sunday morning prizes were presented to the winners of the different challenges. Our thanks to Rowenna GSL for organising and planning of the camp which everyone enjoyed.

SMALLFIELD CLUB AND READING ROOM
NEW ROAD, SMALLFIELD

Thank you to everyone who supported our Skittles evening. We had an amazing nine teams enter, which turned out to be a great competition with several new teams taking part. The winners were 'The Boys' with 264 points and runners up with 247 points were 'Me and Mark'.

Forthcoming entertainment:

We have no entertainment during August

We have had several requests for another Skittles evening which we will be holding on 1 September at 8pm. Teams of 4 – £10 per team to enter. Please make sure you register your team in advance to avoid disappointment, as we will be operating a first come, first served basis.

The Committee

AVIATION GROUP

The Aviation Group does not have a meeting in August, instead we are having a Gliding Day at the Southdown Gliding Club at Parham.

The next meeting on Tuesday 4 September in Smallfield Centenary Hall will be '45 Years in Aviation' by Peter Griffiths. After an RAF career he spent many years based in Hong Kong flying the Boeing 747 Jumbo Jet for Cathay Pacific Airlines, who used to fly in and out of Gatwick. The B747 is fast disappearing from the skies as it is replaced by quieter and more fuel efficient airliners.

Visitors are most welcome, admission is £3 for the evening which includes refreshments and the Newsletter. Membership for the rest of 2018 is £5 (£7 for couples and £2 for those under 20), the phone number for further information is 01342 842594.

Our future meetings are:

- 2 October – 'Flying the SR-71 Blackbird on an Operational Mission', Col Richard Graham USAF (Retd).
- 6 November – 'Advances in Ejection Seat Development', James Pearce from Martin Baker Aircraft

LEARN THROUGH PLAY

Learn Through Play Preschool is extending to 30 hours per week in September and therefore has vacancies for the new term, starting 4 September. We welcome children from two years of age and accept childcare vouchers and all government funding. The staff are trained and have a wealth of experience between them. Our staff to children ratio is one to four. At the last 'Ofsted' inspection we were awarded a "Good" and praised for keeping children safe, ensuring good communication between parents and staff and for taking steps to ensure there is continued improvement.

We're all looking forward to our new self-contained preschool room in September. For further information please call Maria McDermott on 07845450676 or email learnthroughplaypreschool@yahoo.co.uk.

Blue Robin Artist

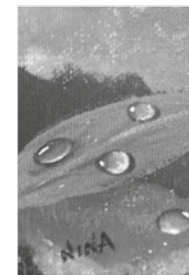

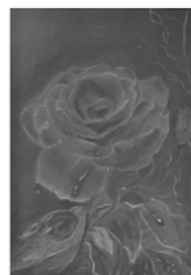

Nina Nunes BSc (Hons), L.A.M.D.A.
Fine Artist & Private Art Tutor

I am a self-taught professional artist offering tutoring in the South East Surrey area. I have been painting and selling for over 25 years. I have my own greetings card business where I sell my cards and recently started selling in the Bluebell Railway! For me learning to paint should be fun, relaxing and enjoyable.

I teach over 20s and in mediums such as Acrylics, oils, watercolours and much more. My lessons are accustomed to the absolute beginner or for the more advanced artist. I offer a trial basis to begin with to see if this is for you.

Standard Rates: £20.00 per/hour

Standard Group Rates: £15.00 per/hour

If you want to learn to paint or are just simply stuck in your existing work and need some helpful advice then contact:-

Nina on : Mobile Number 07889 677292

Email : ninanunes@hotmail.co.uk

Enjoy learning to paint with Nina in an enjoyable, fun and relaxed atmosphere!
